Debrief Final Project

1. Did we achieve objectives?

Yes, we first build the website and after that was done, we started going over all the different checkboxes. We came across some some things we did not achieve and build them in tot the site as a group.

2. What went right?

We started with a relative simple concept, and as we got along and started to get a decent website we made the code and styling more complex. The division of tasks was fair and based on every person´s strong points.

3. What went wrong?

We experienced the most problems with Github. The start was also difficult because we used a template that was not allowed. After that, we started building each our own part but did not discuss the specific content and what should be in it. This caused some confusion.

4. What to do next time?

Create one general repository and each our own branch on that repository.
Make a small start of the day meeting, and end of the day debrief.
Decide what content to use and what must be in each section of the page.
